Qualified Preretirement Survivor Annuity (QPSA) notice

If your spouse has a vested account in a retirement plan, federal law requires that you receive a special death benefit if your spouse dies before beginning to receive retirement benefits (or, if earlier, before the beginning of the period for which the retirement benefits are paid).

If you have been married to your spouse for at least one year (some plans may specify a shorter time period), you have the right to receive this payment for your life beginning after your spouse dies. The special death benefit is often called a qualified preretirement survivor annuity (QPSA). This death benefit will automatically be paid in a lump sum rather than as a QPSA if the value of the death benefit is $5,000* or less.

If the lump-sum value of the death benefit is greater than $5,000, the death benefit will be paid in the form of a QPSA. Other options may be available. The actual amount of the QPSA benefit will vary depending on the vested account balance, your age and the cost to purchase the benefit.

Your right to the QPSA benefit provided by federal law cannot be taken away, unless you agree to give up that benefit. If you agree, your spouse can choose to have all or part of the death benefit paid to someone else. The person your spouse chooses to receive the death benefit is usually called the beneficiary. As an example, if you agree, your spouse can have the death benefit paid to his or her children instead of you.

Example: Pat and Robin Doe agree that Robin will not receive the QPSA benefit. Pat and Robin also decide that half of the death benefit that is paid from Pat's vested account will be paid to Robin, and half of the death benefit will be paid to Pat and Robin's child, Chris. The total death benefit is $200 per month. After Pat dies, the plan will pay $100 per month to Robin for the rest of Robin's life. Chris will also receive payments from the plan as long as he lives. Chris will receive less than $100 per month because Chris, being younger than Robin, is expected to receive payments over a longer period.

Your choice to give up the QPSA benefit must be voluntary. It is your personal decision if you want to give up the right. If you sign this agreement, your spouse can choose the beneficiary who will receive the death benefit without telling you and without getting your agreement. Your spouse can change the beneficiary at any time before he or she begins receiving benefits or dies. You have the right to agree to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary. If you want to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary, check the box in Choice C under the My Beneficiary Choices section, which will limit the beneficiary choice to the one designated on this form.

You can agree to give up all or part of the QPSA benefit. If you do so, the plan will pay you the part of the benefit you did not give up, and pay the remaining part of the benefit to the person or persons selected by your spouse.

You can change your mind with respect to giving up your right to the QPSA benefit until the date your spouse dies. After that date, you cannot change this agreement. If you change your mind, you must notify the plan administrator in writing that you want to revoke the consent you give on this form.

You may lose your right to the QPSA benefit if your spouse and you become legally separated or divorced even if you do not sign this agreement. However, if you become legally separated or divorced, you might be able to get a special court order called a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) that specifically protects your rights to receive the QPSA benefit or that gives you other benefits under this plan. If you are thinking about separating or getting a divorce, you should get legal advice on your rights to benefits from the plan.

QPSA spousal consent and agreement

I understand that I have a right to a QPSA benefit from my spouse's retirement account (see prior section for explanation of QPSA benefit) if my spouse dies prior to receiving retirement benefits—or if earlier, before the beginning of the period for which the retirement benefits are paid. I also understand that if the value of the QPSA benefit is $5,000* or less, the plan will pay the benefit to me in one lump-sum payment.

I agree to give up my right to the QPSA death benefit and to allow my spouse to choose another beneficiary to receive some or all of that benefit. I understand that by signing this agreement, my spouse can choose any beneficiary without telling me and without my consent agreement, unless I limit my spouse's choice to the particular beneficiary by checking the appropriate box in the My Beneficiary Choices section of this form. If I do not check this box, I understand that my spouse can change the beneficiary at any time before retirement benefits begin without telling me and without getting my approval.

I understand I do not have to sign this agreement. I am signing this agreement voluntarily. If I do not sign this agreement, I will receive the QPSA benefit if my spouse dies before beginning to receive retirement benefits—or, if earlier, before the beginning of the period for which the retirement benefits are paid. I understand that if the value of the QPSA benefit is $5,000* or less, the plan will pay the benefit to me in one lump-sum payment.

* Your plan can specify a lower dollar amount.

Important information for spouse

If your spouse has a vested account in a retirement plan, Federal law requires that you will receive the vested account after your spouse dies.

Your right to your spouse’s death benefit provided by federal law cannot be taken away unless you agree. If you agree, your spouse can elect to have all or part of the death benefit paid to someone else. Each person your spouse chooses to receive part of the death benefit is called a “beneficiary.” For example, if you agree, your spouse can have the death benefit paid to his or her children instead of you.

Your choice must be voluntary. It is your personal decision whether you want to give up your right to your spouse’s death benefit. If you do not agree to give up your right to your spouse’s death benefit, you should not sign this agreement and you will receive the death benefit after your spouse dies. If you sign this agreement, your spouse can choose the beneficiary who will receive the death benefit without telling you and without getting your agreement. Your spouse can change the beneficiary at any time before the account is paid out. You have the right to agree to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary. If you want to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary, check the box in Choice C under My Beneficiary Choices section, which will limit the beneficiary choice to the one designated on this form.

You can change your mind with respect to giving up your right to the death benefit until the date your spouse dies. After that date, you cannot change this agreement. If you change your mind, you must notify the plan administrator in writing that you want to revoke the consent you give on this form.

Legal separation or divorce may end your right to the death benefit even if you do not sign this agreement. However, if you become legally separated or divorced, you might be able to get a special court order called a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) that specifically protects your rights to the death benefit. If you are thinking about separating or getting a divorce, you should get legal advice on your rights to benefits from the plan.

Spousal agreement and consent

I understand I have a right to all of my spouse’s death benefits after my spouse dies. I agree to give up my right to all or a portion of the death benefits and have all or a portion of them paid to someone else as beneficiary. I understand that by signing this agreement, my spouse can choose the beneficiary of the death benefits without telling me and without getting my agreement. I understand that by signing this agreement, my spouse can change the beneficiary of the death benefits unless I limit my spouse’s choice to the particular beneficiary by checking the appropriate box on the My Beneficiary Choices section. I understand that by signing this agreement, I may receive less money than I would have received if I had not signed the agreement, and I may receive nothing from the plan after my spouse dies. I understand that I do not have to sign this agreement. I am signing this agreement voluntarily. I understand that if I do not sign this agreement, then I will receive the death benefit after my spouse dies.
