

Protect your business – what you’ve worked so hard to build

You work hard to make sure revenue comes in the door and that everyone is happy. It’s your livelihood. That’s why it’s important to make sure everything’s protected from the unexpected. Disability insurance can help.

Why should I consider disability insurance?

You never know what life will bring. When there’s a serious illness or injury, disability insurance can provide benefit payments to help protect your:

Personal income – so you and your loved ones can continue to live your best lives.

Business – so it can stay up and running while you recover or transition the business to someone else.

Employees’ incomes – shows them you care about them when times are good...and when life gets tough.

Do I really need it?

You may be surprised at the chance of a disabling illness or injury. It’s more than just accidents. It can happen to anyone, anywhere, anytime.

Over 95% of disabilities are caused by illnesses.¹

How much does it cost?

Disability insurance is flexible and can be designed to work with your budget and needs.

For example, to protect your income, it typically costs just 1-3% of what you earn.

To put that in perspective, in a month, that's less than:

A daily cup of premium coffee

A date night

Buying lunch every day

Your smartphone bill
