Learn more about your group disability coverage

Protecting your income is important.

Group disability insurance is a good base of coverage, but may not be enough if you become too sick or hurt to work.

Make sure your income is adequately protected. The first step is to get answers to these questions about your group disability coverage:

- > When do I receive benefit payments?
- > Does the coverage pay benefits if I'm able to work part-time during a disability? Or do I need to be totally disabled to receive benefit payments?
- > How much are my monthly benefit payments?
- > What does it mean to be totally disabled? Does it cover me in my particular occupation?
- > Do benefits keep up with the changing cost of living?
- > Can I keep my coverage if I change jobs?
